INTERNATIONAL DAY OF EDUCATION - JANUARY 24TH

This year's International Day of Education theme is "Learning for Lasting Peace." It reminds us that education is essential to help us understand, empathise, and respect other cultures. International students are a big part of this effort to create a more peaceful world. They bring unique perspectives and experiences, and by learning from each other, they develop the skills needed to help different cultures understand each other.

On this International Day of Education, let's celebrate how learning can transform the world and make lasting peace. By teaching international students the necessary knowledge and skills and how to understand different cultures, we can build a more peaceful and friendly world where everyone is welcome. This means we can embrace our differences and live together in harmony.
